

Bridging the generation gap is child's play

Grandpa John Tan, 49, changes the diaper of his 17-month-old granddaughter Chloe Tay as she entertains herself with his mobile phone.

They were competing in the first round – diaper changing – of the Happiest Grandparent and Baby category in Baby Singapore 2009, held at Tampines North Community Club on Sunday.

Sunday's competition organised by

People's Association Family Life Champions saw 150 babies taking part.

The event will be held across 12 community clubs over the next two months, and the winners of each competition will compete in the finals in June.

Chloe and her grandfather came in second in their category, narrowly missing out on a place in the finals.
